Fire protection ends for Pettis Countians

Thursday's walkout by Pettis County firemen has prompted local Civil Defense Director Jerry Iuchs to call a special meeting for 7:30 o'clock tonight to determine how many county residents are interested in serving as volunteer firemen.

Iuchs said the meeting would be held at the county fire station, Main and State Fair

Friday morning Western District Judge Paul White said Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county clerk, was asked to write a letter to the firemen, officially notifying them they were no longer employed. Late in December Fire Chief Ronnie Ollison said his men would not quit until they received written notice.

However, Thursday's action evidently pre-empted that decision. Presiding Judge John Bluhm said he called the firemen to tell them they would no longer be paid by the county because the state attorney general's office had advised the County Court that the fire department existed illegally.

Bluhm also reported that County Auditor Jerry Barr and Mrs. Wilson both had said they would no longer sign checks for the firemen because they considered such

The presiding judge said he would not sign the letter of notification to the firemen because "I don't think it's fair to the men." He said when he called them, the firemen were "upset," especially when they learned they would not be paid for working Wednesday and Thursday.

The County Court also learned Friday that the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, which had been contacted in efforts to obtain new funding, said it could do nothing to help the county. Frank Schwarzer, director of the commission, said state and federal funds were not available for such purposes, according to Russell McFatrich, Eastern District Iuchs and former county fireman Dave Fischer manned the fire station from 8 p.m. Thursday to 7:45 a.m. Friday. After that, however, the station stood empty.

It was not known at noon Friday what would happen if no one attends tonight's meeting, or if no one volunteers to man the station after the meeting. Iuchs said the local Civil Defense agency had not reached a decision on this aspect of the problem.

There have been no fire alarms reported in rural Pettis County since the firemen

Iuchs said if people would volunteer the Civil Defense office would train them, "but we can't do it all." He said the idea of civil defense is to give temporary service to the community in times of emergency. "And this is an emergency," Iuchs added

Mayor Jerry Jones said the city fire department could not fill the vacuum. "It's against state statutes for the city fire department to answer a call outside of the city limits," Jones said.

The mayor said that in the past he has ordered the Sedalia fire department to answer calls just outside the city limits. He said he could not stand by and let the city department do nothing if the need arose in the county.

The mayor has told the County Court

Unemployment over 7 per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate soared to 7.1 per cent of the work force in December as Americans without jobs totaled more than six million for the first time since the Great Depression, the government reported today.

The 7.1 per cent rate itself was the highest in 13 years.

Not since 1940 — when the nation was shaking off the effects of the Depression - have more than six million been unemployed. Some 8.1 million were jobless then, about 14.6 per cent of that era's smaller labor force.

The Labor Department said the December increase in the jobless rate, from 6.5 per cent in November, was the biggest monthly increase since October 1960 when the unemployment rate also rose six-tenths of a per cent.

The unemployment rate is now at its highest level since May 1961 when it also stood at 7.1 per cent. The last time it exceeded that level was during the 1958 recession when it hit 7.4 per cent in August of that year. Heavy layoffs in the auto industry helped boost the number of unemployed last month by 560,000 to a total of 6.5 million. There were 5,975,000 workers unable to find employment in November, the government said.

President Ford, who returned Thursday night from a skiing vacation in the Rockies, will meet Saturday with his key economic policy advisers.

Today's job report is almost certain to receive much attention at the meeting. With unemployment rising more sharply than anticipated as the recession worsens. the President will be under increased pressure to consider major tax cuts in order to help stimulate the economy.

Over the past 12 months, unemployment has increased by more than two million. The nation's unemployment rate averaged 5.6 per cent in 1974. The jobless rate in 1973 averaged 4.9 per cent.

The Labor Department said job losses last month affected both white-and bluecollar workers and virtually every major worker category.

Two other indications of the economic sag came Thursday when the Commerce Department reported that new orders for factories declined 2 per cent in November and new construction slumped 2.7 per cent that month. The December unemployment figures.

which reflect massive layoffs in automobile-related industries as well as those resulting from the nationwide coal strike, were based on data gathered before the middle of the month. Lavoffs have continued to spread since then and will push the jobless rate for January still

This trend was indicated Thursday in the Labor Department's weekly report on unemployment insurance claims. The report said 677,800 persons applied for jobless benefits during the week ended Dec. 21, an increase of 40,100 over the previous week.

Administration economists predict unemployment will continue rising until it reaches about 7.5 per cent by midyear, but some private economists forecast a rate of 8 per cent by summer, a level that has not been approached in the last 25

Ford holds meetings on CIA spy charges

Out of business?

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford summoned CIA Director William Colby, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to the White House today for separate meetings on charges that the CIA engaged in llegal domestic intelligence activities.

The meetings were disclosed by administration sources as Ford returned to his office after a 12-day Rocky Mountain skiing vacation.

The Oval Office meetings raised the possibility that Ford soon would be making a statement on a 50-page report submitted by Colby after published allegations that the CIA maintained files on 10,000 U.S. citizens.

Colorado Thursday night, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he expects Ford's statement on the CIA to come by the middle of next week.

Ford also is planning to sign the trade bill today, a measure he says is needed to help avert an international economic dis-

The bill empowers the President to negotiate mutual trade concessions with other nations and provides special assistance to U.S. industries and communities threatened by imports. The measure also permits trade concessions to Communist countries that allow free emigration of Jews and other minorities.

Gold prices are steady in America

Gold prices were steady to slightly lower today at U.S. commodity markets and retail outlets as Americans remained largely indifferent to the opportunity to own gold bullion.

On European currency exchanges, prices ranged from about the same as Thursday to sharply lower. Some gold specialists said they now believe that the American lack of interest that has colored the first gold bullion trading in the United Stats since 1933 may be the rule for several months at least. In Zurich, Switzerland, where bullion trading resumed for the first time since Dec. 31, gold closed at $171 a troy ounce — 1.097 regular ounces - compared with $188 to $190 an ounce on Dec. 31.

Elsewhere in Europe, the London afternoon gold fixing was $174 an ounce, up slightly from the $173.50 close on Thursday. In Paris, the afternoon fixing was $178.73, the lowest since Oct. 25. compared with $188.90 Thursday after-

Ford has called a conference Saturday of key economic advisers and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller was promised a major role in shaping administration policy, but he was conspicuously absent from meetings that Ford held in Vail, Colo., last weekend with top government officials. White House officials said Rockefeller did not join the Vail conferences because he had long ago scheduled a Christmas vacation in Puerto Rico.

Colby succeeded Schlesinger as CIA Improvement noted for Justice Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ailing Justice William O. Douglas "has shown improvement in his left-side weakness" and has begun physical therapy, a Supreme Court spokesman said today.

In a statement issued to reporters just before noon, the court's information officer, Barrett McGurn, said:

"Justice Douglas spent a restful night and has shown improvement in his leftside weakness. He continues on anticoagulants and began physical therapy yesterday. He is alert ... His vital signs remain stable and he is resting comfortably."

Earlier the 76-year-old Justice's personal physician, Dr. Thomas Connally of Arlington, Va., said doctors treating Douglas are encouraged by his progress.

Connally said it was impossible to tell how long recovery would take or whether Douglas would be able to resume the bench during the current term ending in June. However, it was considered unlikely that Douglas would be back at work when the court's Christmas recess ends.

Douglas was admitted to Walter Reed Army Medical Center on Wednesday after suffering a stroke New Year's Eve in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Connally said the justice collapsed and experienced weakness in his left side while in his hotel room Tuesday evening shortly after arriving in Nassau from Washington.

"I think it was clear to Mrs. Douglas that he had had a stroke," he said. He said the justice did not lose consciousness. Douglas and his wife, Cathy, were flown

Overdone grand opening

Winchel's Donut Shop at Broadway and Ohio hasn't been open quite two weeks and this car went through its front window and injured five persons Friday morning. Police said that one-year-old Kurts Lehmeyer was waiting in the car with his grandmother while his mother, Mrs. Linda Lehmeyer and his uncle were inside the shop. Kurts apparently put the car in gear, and, because of a fast idle, it went through the window. Treated for lacerations and released from Bothwell Hospital were Greg Moyer, 20, 1615 West Third; Kim Brant, 17, Tipton; Cynthia Roller, 17, Tipton; Edward Bertnollia, 39, Rolla; and Norma Vinyard, 39, 1804 South Ohio, the shop manager's wife.

1975 looks bleak for auto makers

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto makers have closed the books on their most tumultuous year since World War II and opened 1975 with announcements of new production cutbacks and hints of more to come.

They also confirmed independent industry estimates that new car output in 1974 sank to its lowest level in four years. A 67-day General Motors strike cut production in 1970, while the 1974 output was trimmed by a three-week strike of American Motors workers last September.

Additional bad news is expected to come Monday when the industry reports its year-end sales totals. Deliveries since September have trailed year-before levels by 30 per cent.

Another sales drop in December, as anticipated, would trigger a new round of production cutbacks and layous.

U.S. passenger car production in 1974 stood at 7,340,373 units, a 24 per cent drop from a record 9.660,819 in 1973.

It was the lowest output since 1962, with the exception of 1970, when General Motors was hit by a 67-day national strike. December production was 357,429 units.

off 31 per cent from 517,955 in December 1973 when production and sales had just begun to tumble in response to effects of the energy crisis. GM production in December 1974 was 215,423, down 17 per cent from 259,273 in December 1973. Production for 1974 stood at 3,585,509, a 32 per cent decline from the 1973 total of 5,252,734.

Ford's production for December 1974 was 108,024, off 18 per cent from December 1973's 131,984. Total production for last year was 2,205,245, down 12 per cent from the 1973 total of 2,495,853

Chrysler built only 15,222 cars in December, an 85 per cent decline from the 103,217 built in December 1973. For the year, Chrysler's output was 1,198,241, off 23 per cent from 1973's 1,556,377.

American Motors reported output in December at 18,760, off 20 per cent from 1973's 23,481. Production declined one per cent for the year, 351,378 to 355,855 in 1973.

The most hard-pressed of the companies, Chrysler Corp., announced Thursday it was shutting three plants for at least a week, beginning Monday, and eliminating second shifts at two of those facilities when they reopen. One of the shift eliminations was announced pre-

The new shutdowns will force the layoff of 10,800 hourly workers, 2,600 of them for indefinite periods.

Religion in '74

Ordination was top story

By GEORGE CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The precedent-breaking ordination of 11 women as Episcopal priests in defiance of church regulations is considered by the country's religion news reporters as the top religion story of 1974.

The event, which still is having repercussions in the denomination as well as in other Protestant and Catholic churches, headed the list of newsmakers in an annual yearend poll of the Religion Newswriters Association.

Its members, including specialists covering religion for newspapers, news magazines and wire services, ranked other religion stories of the year in this order:

Second: The widening split among the 2.9 million members of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod between socalled conservatives and moderates in a dispute over Biblical interpretation. The firing of the Rev. Dr.

John Tietjen as president of the church's Concordia Seminary in St. Louis sent most of the faculty and students into a seminary-in-exile on nearby sister campuses, backed by a newly organized wing of the church.

Third: The impact on religious leaders and institutions of the Watergate scandals, causing many to rethink their relationships to government and to political parties.

Fourth: The tooling up by religious institutions to fight world hunger, as facts about the crisis in food became more widely disseminated.

Fifth: The exorcist phenomenon, which broke early in the year as the result of a popular movie on the subject, producing a flurry of alleged cases of demon-possession and theological debate about it.

The poll was taken by Roy Larson of the Chicago Sun-Times: James H. Bowman of the Chicago Daily News and James Robinson of the Chicago

Decline in availability 'Male-White-Unknown' buried of rental units is seen

NEW YORK (AP) - The precipitous decline in new home construction has produced lamentation about the inability of most young Americans to purchase single-family homes. But there's more to the problem than that.

Kansas City policeman is killed

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I heard Officer Mestdagh yelling from inside the building but I couldn't hear what he was yelling," recalled Patrolman Thomas M. Gaugh of the fatal hooting of his partner.

Gaugh, who helped train Russell D. Mestdagh when he joined the force Sept. 7, 1971, attempted to save his life with closed-heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

But Mestdagh, shot four times when he and Gaugh answered a holdup alarm at a drug store late Thursday, was pronounced dead at a hospital.

He was 25. Gaugh said he was covering a rear entrance to the pharmacy when he heard Mestdagh yelling. Returning to the front, he saw two men running from the drug store, one of them carrying a pistol.

Gaugh gave chase, apprehended one and returned to the situation that some housing authorities believe will cause considerable difficulty during 1975: the decline in availability of rental units.

Private housing starts in general are down, but the drop in multiunit projects is far sharp-er than for single-family homes. Builders of apartment houses have found money hard to get, costly and sometimes encumbered by conditions they choose not to accept.

Moreover, the rising price of fuel and the general increase in upkeep costs has made multiunit developments questionable as investments, at least to a sizable number of would-be landlords.

This fear of the future has also encouraged the construction of condominiums rather than rental units. Rather than making long-term com-mitments, builders prefer to turn over ownership and headaches to tenants.

In addition, existing rental buildings all over the country are being converted to condominiums as owners seek to escape the uncertainties of fu-

Improvements sought in Jewish relations

By GEORGE CORNELL AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - On a worldwide basis, the Roman Catholic Church is launching an effort to rid itself of insinuations against Jews and establish deepened, working bonds with Judaism.

Although that faith gave birth to Christianity, mutual misimpressions have marred their attitudes toward each other for 2,000 years, the Vatican says, adding that conditions now are open for building a "new relationship.

'The spiritual bonds and historical links binding the Church to Judaism ... render obligatory a better mutual understanding and renewed mutual esteem, the Vatican said Thursday in guidelines spelling out steps for seeking that goal.

A Jewish leader hailed the document generally, saying its implementation "would constitute nothing less than a revolution in esteem between Catholics and Jews everywhere." But he sharply deplored certain aspects of it Rabbi Marc H. Tannenberg, cosecretary of the International Jewish Committee for Interreligious Consultations, said the guidelines assert a "conversionary intention" toward Jews, implying that Judaism is inadequate for them, and that God's covenant with them has ended.

This is "totally unacceptable to the Jewish conscience," he says, adding that Judaism centers "on the critical conviction that God's covenant with Israel is everlasting" and not subject to substitution

He says the matter will be taken up with the Vatican's new commission on Catholic-Jewish relations at a meeting in Rome Jan. 7-9. The guidelines, issued by the OLATHE, Kan. (AP) - A juvenile boy was being held today in connection with the death of Ruth Ann Newton, 14, who was shot in the head with a shotgun.

Miss Newton died late Thursday at the University of Kansas Medical Center in nearby Kansas City, Kan. Sheriff Fred Allenbrand, guarding his information because a juvenile was involved, said only that a person who reported the shooting referred to it as an accident. Lt. Ed Davies of the sheriff's

Woman is killed in plane crash

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) - An Iowa woman was killed and two men were injured late Thursday when a twin-engine plane crashed into a building near the Greater Rockford Air-

The dead woman was identified as Kathleen Flanders of Ottumwa, Iowa. Officials said she was about 22. Listed in satisfactory condition at Rockford hospital were the pilot, James Schnur, 22, of Fremont, Iowa, and the copilot, James Michalik, 34, of Davenport, Iowa.

The plane, owned by B.J. Aero-Freight Co., of Ottumwa, was circling the airport when it crashed into the offices of the National Lock Co., said Hugh L. Doyle of the Federal Aviation Administration in Rock-

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -Penn Central trustees say that unless they receive substantial federal funds in February and March, the railroad will have to "undertake extensive furloughs and drastic reduction of maintenance programs."

Blaming a faltering economy, the recent coal strike and shrinking steel and auto shipments, trustees said Thursday that Penn Central will need an additional $60 million to get through the winter.

The Penn Central received $30 million last month, but trustees said that money would be spent by the end of this month.

The trustees said they expect Penn Central to lose $1 million every day during the first quarter of 1975, blaming a severe business downturn that began in October. Penn Central's losses for the first 11 months of 1974 were reported to be $156.9 million, compared with $146.5 million for the same period in

Still no leads available in Cline shooting

As of noon Friday, Sedalia police still were in doubt about the motive behind the shooting New Year's day of Elziah Cline Jr., 30, 212 East St. Louis, because they were unable to talk to the wounded man.

Cline is still reported in serious condition at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia, suffering from multiple injuries received from a shotgun blast in the back. It is still not known who shot Cline. The incident occurred about 2 a.m. Wednesday in the 200 block on East Main. Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin is in Columbia waiting to talk to Cline, it was reported.

It was incorrectly reported to The Democrat-Capital Thursday that Cline had served one prison term in the state penitentiary, and that he was awaiting trial ng charge in Johnson County.

It was later learned that Cline is presently free on $10,000 bond after a Johnson County Circuit Court jury Nov. 13 convicted him of kidnaping and recommended his sentence at two years in custody of the State Department of Corrections, a spokesman for the Johnson County circuit clerk's office said.

Cline and another Sedalia man, Cye Casey, 320 East St. Louis, were charged with abducting a Clinton man, Anthony Stewart, on June 25, 1973, at gunpoint from his home. They were arrested the same night in Columbia

The circuit court spokesman said Cline is free on bond pending a hearing on a motion for a new trial, scheduled next Tuesday in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The case was moved from Henry County to Johnson County on a change of venue.

Casey's trial, originally scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed, the spokesman said.

A spokesman for the State Department of Corrections told The Democrat-Capital last August that Cline had served three terms at the state penitentiary.

He was sentenced to two years in January, 1963, on a Jackson County stealing charge, and released Jan. 21, 1964.

On Feb. 13, 1968, he was sentenced to two years in Pettis County Circuit Court on a burglary charge, and served to Feb. 7,

On July 3, 1969, Cline pleaded guilty in Pettis County Circuit Court to a charge of first-degree robbery and was sentenced to five years. He was released Feb. 1, 1972.

Sedalia men are arraigned on theft charges

WARSAW - Two Sedalia men were arraigned here Thursday afternoon on charges of felonious stealing, according to the Magistrate Court clerk.

Charles E. Ewing, 24, and Robert Edde, 29, both of 1908 South Lamine, Sedalia, were arrested for allegedly stealing scrap iron from Roy Harms, Cole Camp, Wednesday. The Benton County sheriff's department reports Ewing was arrested at the scene and Edde was arrested by Pettis County sheriff's officers in Sedalia Wednesday night.

The two men allegedly used a truck on Jan. 1 to collect 1,000 pounds of scrap iron from Ewing's father in Morgan County, along Highway 135. They allegedly then went by Harms' property and took more

Stover fire victims probably were alive

(Democrat Capital Service)

Victims of laast week's trailer home fire in Stover probably were alive when the blaze began, State Fire Marshal Robert Morrison reported Thursday

Morrison said tests conducted on blood samples taken from four of the five victims showed carbon monoxide in the blood. "This ties right in with the theory that they were alive at the time the fire started," Morrison said. Blood samples were taken last Friday from the bodies of Otis and Mae Gregory, their son, Jerry, and grandson, Mark Dickey. Though the victims probably were alive when the fire started, Morrison said his office maintains its earlier ruling that the fire was caused by arson and that a murder-suicide may have been the motive. "As far as we're concerned the autopsies and coroner's inquest didn't change our opinion. Technically, this is the only thing we can state at this time and we consider our case closed," Morrison said. A Morgan County coroner's jury ruled Tuesday that four of the five victims died of smoke inhalation and burns.

Autopsies were performed to determine whether the victims were dead before the fire. Morgan County Coroner Dr. Robert that the city force can be used in the event of a fire at the Buena Vista Nursing Home, which is near the city limits.

Former Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Friday morning that Pettis Countians knew the fire department was not funded legally by using general revenue funds, and nothing was done.

"I had a meeting this past summer about the fire department. The University of Missouri Extension people had a man down here from Columbia and some action was taken after the meeting to get a levy started, but nobody ever got a petition started for the ballot," Walch said.

Walch said the fire department needs more men and better equipment to be effective and he thinks a tax levy would give it the muscle needed

"I saw this coming for a long time. I talked about it constantly, but nobody did anything. So the only way to get something done was to take action like this," Walch

The Pettis County Fire Department was created 19 years ago under the court headed by Presiding Judge Frank Monroe, according to Walch and Bluhm, Monroe knew the funding of the department with general revenue funds was illegal. "But he thought it was a good service to the people being served (by the department). General revenue has to be something that serves everybody," Bluhm Conceding that past county audits have pointed out that the fire department was funded illegally, Bluhm added: "an audit is a recommendation and not a mandate." Bluhm said the county court will meet with both Smithton and Green Ridge fire departments to discuss "possibilities of working something out" in the form of cooperative fire protection. The court will meet with the Smithton Fire Department at 7:30 p.m. Monday and with the Green Ridge Fire Department at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 10. On Jan. 9 the court plans to meet with residents from Walnut Hills, Maplewood, Longwood and Bahner to discuss plans for a tax levy or possibly initiating a fire district. The group will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Prudential Insurance Building, Fifth and Lamine.

Bluhm said the court hopes to put a tax levy proposal before voters in the spring. However, he said the levy "could have been put on the November (general election) ballot, but no one did anything about it. This thing has been going on for 19 He said no residents had petitioned for the election and that the court only recently discovered that Mrs. Wilson intended to stop signing checks for the fire department. She made the announcement last week. Under Pettis County's new second class status, checks previously signed by Bluhm and Mrs. Wilson must now be signed by Barr as well. Bluhm said, "The past court had no intention of cutting off fire services without giving residents a chance to vote. The past court had no inkling this was coming up or we would have done something."

He said in order to put a levy before the voters residents must petition the Circuit Court with at least 100 signatures. Western District Judge Paul White and Eastern District Judge Russell McFatrich. both newcomers, took office Thursday.

At last, verdicts in Watergate case

After a three-month trial, the Watergate jury has returned its verdicts, finding four of the five defendants guilty of all charges.

The latter was convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice; the others of this charge as well as reputations of many of Richard actual obstruction of justice. declarations to a grand jury.

It was Ehrlichman's second conviction. On July 12 he was found guilty of conspiring to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg by arranging to have Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office burglarized.

The four face prison terms ranging from 5 to 25 years, plus sizable fines. Judge John Sirica has yet to pass sentences.

Although appeals will ensue. Wednesday's verdicts represent a climax in the long, complicated cover-up phase of Watergate. The trial has made it clear that once the fateful decision was made that the break-in of Democratic National Committee headquarters would be palmed off as nothing more than "a third rate-burglary," in the immortal words of Ron Ziegler, the Nixon administration set the stage for what would follow. As time went on, the lie became harder and harder to sustain.

In the end it cost the careers and Nixon's closest associates. They are perjury and making false now paying the price of protecting their former boss, who himself is immune from prosecution by virtue of the pardon granted him by President Ford.

Now they are doing the hanging.

"I THOUGHT THE AMERICANS TOOK CARE OF THIS SORT OF THING."

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — We find ourselves unhappy objects of the displeasure of Mr. William F. Buckley. For many years, we have coexisted on editorial pages - he witty propounder of epigrams and ponderer of grand themes, we the truculent burrowers into the pigstys of the Republic.

This is not to say that colleague Buckley shuns the newsman's chore of grappling with public abuses. Recently, he did a definitive expose of the indifference displayed by the stewardesses and luggagemen of Spain's Iberia Air Line, raising a standard to which long abused jetsetters the world over rallied

And before that, he inveighed forcefully against the purging of Latin and Greek from the American Catholic liturgy, and against the playing at Sunday Mass of the vulgar guitar. But, while he has thus paid his dues, the expose is not his preferred

Except when it comes to us. Searching for the reason, we find that Buckley has materialized in our lives only when we have chanced to blackguard some particular hero of his - Sen. Joe McCarthy, Roy Cohn, Sen. Tom Dodd, E. Howard Hunt.

When such worthies are under attack, our nemesis dons his Sherlock Holmes cap and springs into action as sleuth for the defense. His investigative technique is unique. He does not call the writers of the story he is debunking to assess their proof. He does not call upon the witnesses for their testimony, or to test their bona fides.

He cuts through such preliminaries by phoning the targets of the story he is debunking and asking them straight out if they are guilty. They say no. Buckley then condemns the story as false, produces the denials as through truths etched in stone and looses a homily or two about the corrosive danger of falsehood. Case closed.

We last took note of this eccentric routine when Buckley's client was the late Tom Dodd. One of the lesser charges against the censured senator was that he promoted petty gifts from companies doing business with the government.

Ignoring the larger charges, Buckley pounced upon this one and quickly laid it to rest by interviewing spokesmen in Dodd's office and officers of some of the offending companies. All promptly denied any impropriety, whereupon Buckley branded the charges as the fabrications of a sex ring that had infiltrated itself into the senator's

Had Buckley called us, we could have acquainted him not only with eyewitnesses to the favor taking, but with receipts and ledgers to back them up. But being so surely in possession of truth, he had no need of facts.

Among the victims thus befriended by Buckley is an occasional military junta and here we come to the cause of our present perturbation.

Recently, we published two reports on the abuse and torture of American citizens by henchmen of the Chilean junta. We reported first that the American consul in Santiago, Fred Purdy, had taken a donothing attitude toward the abduction and even the murder of our nationals, rather than muddy relations with the new junta.

Second, we presented a graphic account of the ordeal suffered by one torture victim, Amy Conger, a 31-year-old teacher from Chicago.

Enter Buckley, nose sniffing, eyes flashing, teeth sharp and gleaming. In rapid fire, he solicited denials from our targets. Both solemnly obliged. Consul Purdy said he heard nothing about torture from Conger.

Functionaries of the junta clinched the matter. They did not torture her. Besides, Amy Conger was a spy who "moved from residence to residence, apparently for the purpose of providing safe houses for young militant Miristas."

Another case closed, except for Buckley's parting homily: "Those who give currency to accounts of tortures of this kind are friends not of the tortured but of who courted the friendship and accepted the word of the accused torturers, without bothering to check the other side. He did not call or visit Amy Conger to hear her story before branding this native, retiring, frightened young woman as a likely international spy. He did not call us or seek access to the range of informants from whom we built these accounts.

Instead, he accepted the charges of the Chilean jailers based on a "confession" extorted from this American girl after 13 days in their hands.

Buckley was impressed with the Chilean ambassador's invitation to "Independent corroboration" of the junta's version of the torture story. We had an experience with the Chilean embassy we would like to have passed on to him.

We called the embassy early in our investigation (as we had called the State Department and as we have called Buckley). A Chilean delegation came to our office flaunting folders full of papers. Here was the proof, they said. They would be delighted to give us an English summary.

That's all right, we said, just leave the papers and we'll get our own translation. They flatly refused; so much for "inviting independent corroboration."

Well, we don't like to continue at odds with so elegant an ornament to our profession as William F. Buckley and we admit to some small fault in the feud. Our column has twitted Buckley once or twice.

But in the interests of amity within the profession, we hereby offer him a deal. We'll try to be less prickly if he'll promise to call us next time before questioning our

The joy of crawl spaces

By DOUG KNEIBERT

I can't prove it, but I'll bet Jules Verne had a crawl space in his house. How else could he have written "Journey to the Center of the Earth?"

My dictionary defines crawl space as, "A space about two feet high provided in a building in order to enable workmen to gain access to plumbing, wiring and other equipment." Which tells only part of the Crawl spaces are built by people too cheap to build a basement. Owners of crawl spaces are recognizable by their raw knees, the bumps on their heads and a latent fear of the dark.

The crawl space really comes into its own in winter. It usually starts when your wife notices that the furnace is making a funny clinking sound, like it hasn't been oiled in three years.

Before venturing into the crawl space, the homeowner should suitably equip himself. A flashlight, screwdriver, wrench, oil can, football helmet and pair of knee pads are considered minimum equipment for such an expedition.

After removing the skin from your knuckles in the course of removing the access door, you will note of one of the distinctive features of crawl spaces-pointed chat. This comes from a special quarry in South America, where it is carefully honed by Indians to a razor

The most direct route to the furnace is underneath the water pipes, which have been carefully placed at forehead level for one crawling on his hands and knees. The trick is to make it to the furnace before you are overcome by unconsciousness.

Since you are crawling on all fours, this necessitates placing the flashlight in your mouth, which can be tough on the bridgework. Miners' lights are also a possibility, except in cases where your furnace is leaking gas. The first indication of a gas leak will be a sudden flash, followed by a negative gravity sensation.

After smashing three leeches with your hand, two cobwebs with your face and bumping into something that scurries off into the dark making a cheeping noise, you will be able to discern the dim outline of Space does not permit a full description of the fauna that inhabit a crawl space during the various seasons, and the homeowner is best advised not to be too curious. I have known grown men who wandered into the dark recesses of crawl spaces to investigate strange sounds, never to be heard from again.

Bloodied but defiant, you finally reach the furnace, after having knocked loose three hot air ducts and the cartilage in your kneecaps. At this point that it it is best to lie on your back and regain your strength before tackling the furnace proper.

About now you discover you left the oil can sitting on the work bench in the garage. The cussing that ensues has been known to heat the average three-bedroom house for up to five weeks.

Abdul-Jabbar at ease

By The Associated Press

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Milwaukee's towering inferno. says he is beginning to feel more comfortable. At the same time, he is making opposing National Basketball Association teams feel most uncomfortable.

Abdul-Jabbar was red-hot Thursday night, firing in 52 points — the high in the NBB this season — powering the Bucks to a 116-111 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

"I feel more comfortable now," said Abdul-Jabbar, who missed the first 16 games of the season with a broken hand and an eye injury, and recently was plagued with a strained back

"Kareem's getting in the groove with his hook shot," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said after Abdul-Jabbar had tossed in 18 of 29 field goal attempts and 16 of 20 free throws. "He got hot and the guys went to him,

The way Bill Musselman talked to them at halftime, Minnesota's Gophers wanted to crawl into a hole.

Bristling at their poor performance in the first half, Musselman told off his players and got some action in the second

The Gophers turned from lambs to tigers and whipped Wisconsin 61-46 in Big Ten basketball Thursday night.

"I talked to them about what life was all about," Musselman said about his hot blast at intermission. "If this was a nonleague game I wish Wisconsin had won. They deserved it.

"We weren't ready to play. They outrebounded us by four in the first half. That shouldn't be. I'm not running an intramural program."

While Minnesota was winning its Big Ten opener, Michigan, Purdue and Iowa also got off winging in the conference race. Michigan, the nation's No. 17 team, tripped Illinois 86-84 in double overtime; No. 18 Purdue stopped Michigan State 94-86 and Iowa defeated Northwestern 75-73.

In other games involving the ranked teams, No. 7 Maryland walloped Appalachian State 96-50; San Francisco smashed No. 10 Providence 96-68 and No. 19 Memphis State turned back Georgia State 102-76.

Freshman Mark Olberding scored 20 points and helped Minnesota dominate the backboards in the second half as the Gophers beat Wisconsin. The Badgers, playing without leading scorer and rebounder Dale Koehler, who has an ankle injury, stayed with the taller Gophers through the first half, which ended in a 24-24 tie.

But Minnesota, 8-1, opened a quick second-half lead and won going away. Responding to Musselman's halftime lecture, the Gophers outrebounded the Badgers after intermission, 27-12.

Waymon Britt's jump shot with 2:11 left in the second overtime period lifted Michigan past stubborn Illinois. Illinois had two chances to tie the score in the final two minutes, but Rick Schmidt missed with 45 seconds left in the overtime period and Nate Williams missed another shot near the buzzer.

The teams were tied at 72 at the end of regulation play as Illinois came back from a 37-35 deficit at halftime. Michigan's C. J. Kupec had to hit a basket with 51 seconds left in regulation play to push the game into overtime.

Of all the clubs in the Central Missouri Conference, Sedalia Smith-Cotton basketball coach David Porter lists Columbia Hickman as probably the Tigers' biggest rival. Rightfully so, since the two clubs have won or shared last three league

'Sure the game is important, but I don't feel it's time to look at do or die dituations this early in the season," says Porter. The Tigers and Hickman have split their home-and-home series the last three seasons. Oddly enough Smith-Cotton, which will face Springfield Hillcrest Saturday night, has had better success on the Kewpies' floor than their own during that period "I don't know what it is, but we seem to beat them there, but

Smith-Cotton, whose most recent victory came over Shawnee Mission (Kan.) South just before the Christmas break, has aged "We have shown maturity as a team. Sure, we are still making some mistakes and will probably continue to do so until we get out feet more firmly on the ground. But I feel we have shown consistent improvement," says the first-year Tigers' head coach. Hickman currently has the league lead with a 1-0 record. Overall the Kewpies are 7-1. Their lone loss came at the hands of

St. Joseph Central just before the Christmas vacation. Smith-Cotton matches up better in size with the Kewpies than most of the Tigers' previous seven opponents. And because of that, Porter may start in a man-to-man defense in tonight's 7:30

The Kewpies are led by senior forward Mike Coleman, who was named to the all-CMC squad as a junior last season. If S-C goes man-to-man, Greg Koetting will get the defensive

A number of other players mentioned how the publicity of the Hunter affair could have an effect beyond the actual individual case.

"This should show the courts how baseball's reserve clause is detrimental to wage earning," said Oakland third baseman and team captain Sal Bando. "In any case, salaries and conditions should improve now.

But from the executive side. President Gabe Paul of the Yankees said the Hunter case could solidify the reserve system. "I think this strengthens the understanding of the reserve clause and what could happen without it.'

Vida Blue, one of Hunter's ex-teammates on the Oakland A's and himself once a celebrated holdout against A's owner Charles O. Finley, was among those who speculated that financially, this could be a breakthrough for all

"Bob Gibson, Steve Carlton and Tom Seaver will set the pace in contract negotiating," Blue predicted. "Nolan Ryan, Bert Blyleven and myself are in the next class, and will be demanding a much larger slice of the pie.

Blue has nothing against Hunter for demanding so much money. "It was a case where reach in the cookie jar and get the best cookie you can get. Hunter earned those big cookies.

A number of others also predicted a salary spiral.

'Hunter's salary should help everybody in baseball." said Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles. "I'm looking forward to it helping me a little bit in my negotiations."

Is Hunter getting paid too much? Virtually all players contacted praised Catfish for getting the best contract possible. "I'm glad he was able to get all he could," said A's first baseman Gene Tenace. summing up the general feel-

Ruth looking forward to closing prosecutor's office

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the Watergate cover-up trial ended, Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth is looking ahead to the day he can close down the prosecutor's office that was spawned by the scandal.

Unfinished business remains. but Ruth said in an interview Thursday that he has no intention of trying to extend the terms of the two special grand juries still considering Watergate matters.

The 18-month term of one of those panels expires in mid-February. The other runs out in

"I don't think it would be appropriate to ask for it (an ex-

Ehrlichman on Thursday became the first of the four to submit to a presentence interview at the probation office.

Sirica has set no sentencing date pending completion of the probation report. Within a month after sentencing, the appeals process is expected to go into motion.

The prosecutor's office seemed quieter than usual on the day after the verdict was returned.

There was no sign of the lawyers who had worked on the case from the start. Chief Prosecutor James F

Neal resigned immediately after the trial to return to law practice in Nashville, Tenn. In an interview there. Neal said he believed Nixon was deeply involved in the Watergate cover-up, but he said President Ford was correct in pardoning

CLEVELAND, (AP) - "Although steel mill shipments were up from our original expectations for the first half of 1974, demand is still outstripping supply by a signifi-cant margin, probably at least 10 to 15 per cent. And based on actual domestic mill shipment figures recorded for the first six months of '74 of about 58 million tons, we are now forecasting shipments of between 52 and 53 million tons for the balance of the year," reported Robert G. Welch, president of the Steel Service Center Institute in an update of the association's latest business conditions survey. That means said Welch, by year end domestic steel mills will have shipped a total of 110 to 111 million tons, approximately the same figure as in 1973. Approximately 5 million tons can be expected to be exported and imports most likely will be down from 15.1 million in 1973 to 12 million compared with 1973.

needs to cut oil imports WASHINGTON (AP) — An independent study said today the United States need not eliminate its oil imports but should cut them to about 20 or 25 per cent of total requirements in order to cope with any future Arab oil embargo. The United States imported more than 35 per cent of its requirements in 1973 and almost 36 per cent in 1974, by oil industry estimates. The proposal to cut imports to 20 or 25 per cent was made in a study called "Energy and U.S. Foreign Policy,' written by Joseph A. Yager and Eleanor B. Steinberg for the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Project. The authors, working at the Brookings Institution here, concluded that the United States, at a reduced level of oil imports, could cope adequately with any new Arab oil embargo. Meanwhile, the Independent Petroleum Association of America said Thursday that domestic drilling for oil and gas increased by 20.4 per

The results of the increased drilling will not be felt for a few more years.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., charged that two major oil firms have "implicitly threatened" to cut off oil for Defense Department needs in Antarctica and Turkey unless they receive exemptions from laws that require them to justify their prices. The companies, Mobil Oil Corp. and Gulf Oil Corp., replied that they planned to continue supplying defense needs. But they conceded unhappiness with the accounting procedures required of

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure my problem is a common one but no one has ever had the guts to write to you about it. Here

I love my husband very much. Our marriage is great except for when it comes to sex. He is unable to satisfy me after four years of marriage. Please don't get me wrong. I'm not a nymphomaniac. Just a normal 27-year-old.

Because of this I am having an affair with a great guy who has the same problem with his wife. Our relationship is purely sexual. Neither of us wants to hurt our families. All we want to do is enjoy ALL aspects of

Since I DO love my husband. I would like to pass on to my husband my lover's techniques of turning me on. Our marriage would then be complete.

The problem is how do I teach him without arousing his suspicions? Is it worth the chance? — Loving But Not Adequately Loved

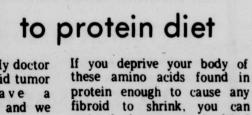

Dear Loving: Most Prosecutor lovemaking "techniques" are instinctive. People with imagination think of them on their own. Don't be afraid to guide your husband subtly. But for heaven's sake, don't come up with too many new ideas all at once.

Dear Ann Landers: This past week my grandson was suspended from school (he's a 10th-grader) because he arrived on Monday morning so drunk he couldn't see straight. He fell out of his seat. Just as someone was about to help him off the floor he got sick and vomited all over the room.

When my daughter-in-law was called by the principal to come and take her son home she said, "Thank God he's not told me I have a fibroid tumor and should have a hysterectomy. I'm 43 and we have six children, so we don't plan to have any more, but I don't want this surgery. I read in a magazine a quote from Gloria Swanson about how she shrunk her own tumor without surgery. She said, "I starved my tumor by not eating any animal protein. I abstained from all meat for over two years. My tumor vanished. So did the doctors that wanted to give me a hysterectomy.

Is it possible such a diet could save me and others from a hysterectomy? I have always eaten a great deal of meat, but would be willing to try this. After talking to others, I have been surprised by the number of women with this condition. It seems almost epidemic in numbers.

Since we must find substitutes for the protein in meat, what do we use? Vegetarians have eaten beans and the like for their protein. How could a tumor tell the difference in the type of protein? Are cheeses considered animal protein?

My surgeon said these tumors may shrink after the menopause because of lack of hormones. He said it could be 10 years before that happened, and fibroids can grow a lot in that time. Mine is already the size of a grapefruit.

Dear Reader - Gloria Swanson is certainly a remarkable woman and has done a lot to publicize her commercial interests in health foods and health food products. I can't condemn too strongly though, the irresponsible quote if it is really as you state it.

Such an idea is an expression of total ignorance of how the body handles food. Your body needs essential amino acids and an adequate supply of protein.

In the meantime, my son and his wife see nothing wrong with a 10th-grader getting a few kicks from alcohol because "after all. it's not against the law, and we have a few cocktails every night at home before dinner.

Will you please print this letter and express your views? If my college-graduate son and his wife have such ideas, other so-called "educated" people in your reading audience might also benefit from what you have to say. - Grandma

Dear Grandma: So alcohol is better than drugs, eh? Doesn't that foolish woman realize that alcohol IS a drug- and it's the most abused of all?

Farm roundup

Farm unit shrinkage decreased in 1974

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) -The nation's farm inventory declined by only 11,000 units last year, the smallest shrinkage in about 40 years, the Agriculture Department

As of Jan. 1 USDA said in a new-year report, there were an estimated 2,819,000 farms in the United States, down from 2,830,000 at the beginning of 1974. The average size was 385 acres, up one acre from 384 a year ago.

According to department records, the loss of 11,000 farms was the smallest since the mid 1930s. A steady decline began after 1935. At that time, records showed, there were more than 6.8 million farms in the country.

The total land in farms as of Jan. 1 was estimated at 1,086,375,000 acres, a decline of about 1.4 million acres from a year earlier. Land is taken from farms for urban growth, highways, airports and other needs.

According to the new estimates, North Carolina reported the greatest decline, from 135,000 farms with 14 million acres a year ago to 132,000 units having 13.8 million

New York state showed the largest increase, up 1,000 units to a total of 58,000 on Jan. 1. Land in farms totaled 11.4 million acres, up from 11.2

A spokesman for the department's Statistical Reporthave shown no change in the past two or three years. Also, he said, the recent high prices of grain and some other commodities has had something to do with the increase in the number of farms in some areas. To qualify under government definition of a farm, a unit must be at least 10 acres in size and sell at least $50 worth of products a year, or - if smaller in acreage must market at least $250 in farm products annually.

Thus, the official said, some farms smaller than 10 acres have qualified to make the list because of an increase in value of corn, soybeans or other items sold at high prices the past year.

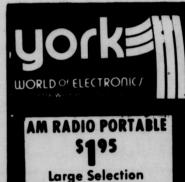

According to the Jan. 1 listing. Texas maintained its top position in farm numbers with 209,000 farms coverng 141.8 million acres, both unchanged from a year earlier. Other top states in numbers of farms included: Missouri 139,000 farms, unchanged from a year earlier, and 32.7 million acres, down from 32.8 million on Jan. 1, 1974; Iowa 137,000 farms down 1,000, and 34.3 million acres, unchanged; Illinois 125,000 farms, down 1,000 and 29.1 million acres. down 100,000;

One-upmanship time is at hand

By LEE MARGULIES Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) back. Sonny's gone, but Cher will take his place. Ironside has been forced into retirement, but there will be more policemen and private investigators than ever to take up where he left off. And the variety show is returning in strength.

That's how the revised their new offerings in the next few weeks.

To the viewing public the The Smothers Brothers are midseason changes mean four new variety shows, four new half-hour comedies and five new law and order

To the networks it means yet another round in the endless fight for ratings. NBC's strong fall lineup has nearly closed the wide gap in numbers of people tuning in that prime time television season CBS enjoyed last year. NBC shapes up. The three executives are hoping the networks will be unveiling coming changes will moved them ahead. CBS is striking back at what it considers NBC weak points.

And ABC, after a disastrous fall in which it canceled six of its 10 new programs, would be overjoyed, as one veteran industry observer put it, just to be No. 2 in the spring. The Nielson ratings show that ABC's overall prime time audience has dropped about 7 per cent since last year. Musical variety shows are the big news of TV's second season. Long a staple in the television diet, only two of them were available in the network's fall lineup: "The Sonny Comedy Revnue." featuring Sonny Bono without Cher following the breakup of their marriage, and the long-running "Carol Burnett Show.'

Network executives say the unusual shortage did not reflect a policy change but was simply a case of not being able to put together any more programs in time for the new season.

Two of the new variety shows have already started: "Tony Orlando and Dawn" and "The Mac Davis Show." coming up Jan. 13 is "The Smothers Brothers Show" and on Feb. 9. "Cher."

Cher. who has proved herself an adept commedienne as well as singer on her previous show with Sonny, will have the same audience Sonny tried and failed to conquer on Sunday evenings. He was on ABC at 8 p.m. EST.; she'll have the 7:30 p.m. EST time slot at CBS.

Michael D. Eisner, vice president of prime time series television at ABC Entertainment, says Sonny's show didn't fail for lack of good production.

"It's obvious the American public prefers Sonny with Cher to Sonny without Cher. His show was just as well produced as their previous one was, but it may have been too soon to do it. She's going to have a tough time, too. Together they formed a personality."

Fred Silverman, CBS vice president in charge of programming, disagrees with that outlook. "I think we ended up with the better half." he said. "She has proven audience appeal and by virtue of her scheduling, has the only show that has adult appeal in the time period. Our research shows that a majority of viewers in the time period are adults.

"I think they want to watch something other than a crippled deer a la "Wonderful World of Disney" or a man who can blow down walls ("The Six Million Dollar Man.").

Family spinoff

Sherman Hemsley respectively, Louise, her son Lionel and her husband George — are TV's newest family: "The Jeffersons." It's a Isabel Sanford, Mike Evans, rear, and half-hour comedy series, inspired by playing, Archie Bunker's next-door neighbors, and it's one of the revised prime season's new offerings to be unveiled in the next few weeks.

As for Tom and Dick Smothers, it's been nearly six years since CBS canceled their successful comedy hour following months of controversy over the show's social and political content.

Now they're coming back on "The conditions that gave rise to what happened with the Smothers Brothers before have disappeared. mostly." says Lawrence R. White, vice president in charge of NBC programming, referring to changes in morality standards.

The network will have final word on what goes on the air. which is what led to the brothers' battles with CBS, and White says these restrictions on content will be exactly the same for Tom and Dick as for every other network program. But he expects. he says, no problems.

The five new police and private detective series join 13 others of that genre already riding the airwaves. Eisner of ABC concedes this is a whopping number, but de-

"There seems to be an audience appetite for law and order in TV viewing." he said. "I don't think this is a result of TV but of a lot more complicated and subtle reasons. I think these shows are totally different and work for different reasons."

The only long-running series to get the midseason axe was "Ironside." ending Raymond Burr's 7½ year stint as a wheelchair-bound police detective. Replacing it in the NBC Thursday night schedule will be "Archer." with Brian Keith playing Ross MacDonald's famous private eye. Lew Archer. Network executive White says the characters and relationships will be faithful to MacDonald's books.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) She came tootling up for our appointment, late but armed with a good excuse. She had been to the doctor because everything had combined to nearly do her in. And when she enumerated everything that went into "everything," it was understandable.

Besides, Shirley MacLaine is such a charmer that one warm smile is all she really needs. Who cares how late she is, as long as she's here now.

But, as noted, her trip to the doctor was necessary. Poor kid. She's been doing the work of three ladies over the past year.

That's two careers performer and writer - and two of the three projects that tied her up for a harrowing year. The third was her career as a producer.

She's making a documentary called "The Other Half of the Sky" which should be ready to be exhibited in the spring.

Highs, lows of American theatre

By WILLIAM GLOVER AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -Highs, lows, trends and oddities of U.S. theatrical endeavor during 1974:

Broadway went on a British binge in its search for a cure for creative anemia and box-office pallor. Of 50 arrivals, 16 originated in Lon-

At year's end, half of the imports but only 13 of the 36 native shows continued in business. Still thriving were three holdover hits from prior seasons.

Among the newcomers, the most theatrically dazzling was "Equus," from across the sea; the most prizewinning has a homegrown renovation of the musical "Candide;" the sleeper smash was "The Magic Show," in from Canada.

The Main Stem's total gross of about $46.2 million was up slightly from the prior year. But legit's main coming shows known as the road. was down almost $10 million in receipts to $45.7 million.

The trade journal Variety capsuled the general situation with "Theater Is Now a National Invalid.

The happiest stars were Colleen Dewhurst, Virginia Capers, Michael Moriarty and Christopher Plummer, winning the top Tony Awards: Carol Channing. Angela Lansbury and Alice Faye, filling theaters on long pre-Main Stem treks.

Chirpiest debutante of the year, in the musical "Gypsy." was Bonnie Langford, who is 9 and wouldn't you know it, comes from England.

Subsidized resident professional troupes appeared to be collectively practicing increased artistic caution, staging old, proven plays rather than new works. Notable exceptions to the prevalent pattern were the Long Wharf of New Haven, Conn., Trinity in Providence, R.I., and Washington's Arena

mercial branch, those travel-Got along, but not as paisanos

By JOAN CROSBY

BURBANK, Calif. - Marty Pasetta thinks maybe he and Frank Sinatra got along because Sinatra thought Marty was a fellow paisano.

"But I'm Yugoslav and French," Marty says. "I never did tell Frank that I'm not Italian."

Marty directed Sinatra's comeback special, then called Ol' Blue Eyes is Back and now, in rerun on NBC-TV on January 10, called Magnavox Presents Frank Sinatra.

Pasetta, who directs supercasts like the Oscars, says he was frightened meeting Sinatra.

"But he went out of his way to be nice. He was so warm. As for the show itself, Frank was most nervous, but it was his comeback and he wanted it to be very good. He was to get back in front of an audience.

Looking back on the special, which was taped a bit over a year ago, Pasetta says there is one change he would recommend if it were to be done again.

"The audience was filled with Sinatra's friends and I would now suggest that it to shut his mouth.

should have been filled with. not those who see him all the time, but those who love him and seldom see him. The people there loved him, but I think the electricity from those who don't see him much, if at all, could have created a different attitude.'

It's a simple program, Sinatra singing in concert. "It's not that we didn't have the money for a big production," Marty said, "but if you garbage him up you are only taking away from the man. I wanted to do a classy show. It was a totally adlibbed, one-take show. Frank said his friends would know if he had done anything over after the audience left.

Only a number with Gene Kelly was taped in advance and that was because it involved dancing, which makes for a breathless singer.

Howard Koch, a long-time associate of Sinatra's and the producer of the show, suggested Marty as director.

"At our first meeting," Marty recalled, "I was so scared I figured I wouldn't be able to talk. But the opposite happened. My mouth wouldn't stop."

And Frank never told him

For the fifth time in a decade there was no Pulitzer Prize for drama, although Louis Sheaffer's monumental study of Eugene O'Neill brought some glory to the theater as the 1974 Pulitzer biography.

The most unfortunate was Bette Davis, sustaining a rehearsal back injury that resulted in abrupt demise of the musical "Miss Moffatt," at a loss of $950,000

Afflictions also hampered other performers. Henry Fonda's triumphant tour in the one-man play "Clarence Darrow" was interrupted by cardiac disturbance. Jan Peerce broke a hip during a tryout-terminated run of "Laugh a Little, Cry a Little." Jim Dale kept running into assorted contusions and sprains as the magnificent madcap of "Scapino."

A scenery fire delayed Broadway opening of "Good News" for seven weeks, and there was bad luck, too, for David Merrick, the Main Stem's erstwhile Midas. After a year's sabbatical in movieland, he returned to produce a dreadful drama. "Dreyfus in Rehearsal," which collapsed after just 12 performances, and the musical "Mack And Mabel," which departed after 66.

In the scramble to keep theaters open, several managements decided against booking hit-or-miss legit offerings in favor of personal appearance stands by everyone from Henry Mancini to the Jefferson Starship, from Lena Horne to Elton John. Most proved sellouts.

Change was evident also along the byways of Off-Broadway and Off-Off-Broadway. Several groups tried for more attention with bigger theaters; others added revivals to a former format of new works only. and some ethnic groups decided to widen audience appeal.

The final curtain fell for many favorite performers. Among the distaff notables were Olga Baclanova, 74; Edna Best, 74; Patricia Collinge, 81; Katharine Cornell, 81; Lili Darvas, 72; Hazel Jones, 79; Agnes Moorehead. 67; Claudia Morgan, 62; Vera Vague, whose real name was Barbara Jo Allen, age unavailable; Nancy Wickwire. 48: Blanche Yurka, 86.

Gone from the male player ranks were Clive Brook, 87; Jerry Dodge, 37; Otto Kruger, 89; Robert Rounseville, 60; Elliott

Peter Firth, left, and Everett McGill are shown in "Equus" the dramatic thriller by Peter Shaffer which has been one of the highlight's of Broadway's 1974 British binge. Sixteen of the 50 Broadway openings this year were British imports and at year's end eight were still running.

The cartoon depicted a soccer team huddled in their dugout planning game strategy, then fighting on the field for the ball and through a series of panels, eventually metamorphosizing into a patrol of armed soldiers under fire in a trench and on the battlefield. It not only opened the minds of many continental antimilitarists but opened the door of opportunity for Peellaert as well.

It was right after publication of that issue that Peellaert's future exploded. He received offers to illustrate for several leading European

It was May, 1970, when Peellaert, researching a movie he hoped to produce, launched the idea for "Rock Dreams."

Two years and seven months later, Peellaert unveiled 116 paintings incorporating photomontage, air brush and a sardonic artist's touch.

"Each painting took approximately two weeks to complete," he said. "One week was spent shooting backgrounds with a Polaroid camera and the next was spent adding the other elements - some paint to the background or a photo of some musician's face. Then, the whole thing was photographed again to give it a Hat, two-dimensional effect."

Veteran veterinarian role for Hopkins

Anthony Hopkins

By HAROLD STERN

NEW YORK - Anthony Hopkins, the Welsh star who gave such a stunning performance as Dr. Adam Kelno, the brutal Nazi doctor in the epic-length (375 TV minutes) "QB VII," seen on ABC-TV last April, makes his next television appearance in "All Creatures Great and Small" (Feb. 4, the latest entry in the Hallmark Hall of Fame series of dramatic specials. In it, he co-stars as Dr. Siegfried Farnon.

Aside from the "Dr."

appellation, the two characters bear no resemblance to each other. Kelno was a concentration camp doctor in charge of inhuman experiments on people. Farnon is a veterinarian. engaged in the care and healing of animals.

"All Creatures Great and Small" is based on James Herriot's best seller of the same title. Though the book is classified as a novel, according to Hopkins it is more an autobiography. The leading character, a young vet named

James Herriot, is played by Simon Ward on TV

"I read the novel after I read the script," Hopkins told me in his New York apartment, "and I think it's a lovely book. It deserves to become a series. There are so many excellent episodes in the book and some of them are hilarious. The TV show covers only a few of them. The foundation and substance for a series are here and I wouldn't mind appearing in future episodes, even though it's really the story of the young vet."

Hopkins, though he may sound like one at times, is hardly the grand old man of 1937, he has been acting professionally for just about nine years, plus a couple of break-in years in English provincial theatre. Yet, most of his credits must be categorized as distinguished. He has been surprisingly free of the clutter and junk most American actors must suffer

"I've been very lucky in what I've done," he said. "I've been given some lovely parts to play and I've had some good friends and fine directors like John Dexter and Laurence Olivier. My career has also involved a certain a mount of self-determination."

One suspects that the quietly forceful Hopkins has had a lot more to do with the type of roles he has played than he suggests.

Hopkins spent about five years as a member of England's National Theatre under Lord Olivier and, when he left, he began doing television in earnest. His starring role as Pierre in "War and Peace" (seen in the U.S. on PBS) won him England's Emmy, the Best Actor of the Year Award. Both "War and Peace" and "QB VII" are scheduled to be rerun in the United States in 1975 and there is a strong possibility that several others of his English TV plays will also be brought over.

"I've been offered good scripts," he said, "and I've had to turn down very few. The standards of script writing and production in English television are very high. I've had an occasional lemon, but no actor can avoid them completely.'

He is presently reading scripts for movies and TV for next season, in anticipation of the end of his Broadway run in "Equus" on June 30. His career has been remarkably free of problems, Hopkins insisted. He has been able to alternate stage and television appearances, plus an occasional movie, which suits him just fine. He would like to do more films, but will be able to attend to that shortly.

"I did have one small problem," he conceded. "I used to worry about people comparing me to Richard stage, film and TV. Born in Burton, but I'm no longer South Wales on December 31: concerned. We come from the same town in Wales, but we've never met. I finally decided there was nothing I could do to avoid the comparison. I'm certainly not

Producing film while vacationing

LOS ANGELES (AP) -What do television series stars do during their between-season vacations? In the case of Michael Douglas, he's producing a $3 million movie.

The talented son of Kirk Douglas finished his third season of "The Streets of San Francisco" this month. In January he starts producing "One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest" starring Jack Nicholson and directed by Milos Forman. The film will be made almost entirely at the Oregon State Mental Hospital at Salem.

Young Douglas, 30, is an example of a modern maverick working inside the Establishment. It seemed inevitable that he would go into acting - his mother, Diana Dill, is an actress, and his father is one of the screen's most durable stars.

"One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest" has a long history, dating back to 1963, when Kirk Douglas starred in the Broadway play. It had a one-month run, but was not a success.

"People came out of the play loving it," said Michael, "but they told their friends, 'It's okay - if you like laughing at crazy people.' Attitudes toward mental illness were different then.'

Kirk Douglas bought the movie rights and twice neared production, but the deals fell through. Law suits over ownership of the property further stalled the film version, and Douglas decided three years ago to dispose of the play.

"Let me take it over," his n urged. "I can at least get back what you put into Characteristically. Michael Douglas declined to take "Cuckoo's Nest" to major companies, seeking instead to make the film with complete independence. He finally found a backer: Sol Zaentz, operator of the Berkeleybased Fantasy Records, home of the Credence Clearwater Revival and other rock stars.

The movie, as well as other factors, appears to have interrupted plans for Douglas to marry actress Brenda Vaccaro, with whom he has lived for five vears. "With all the work I've had preparing the picture, plus problems with the families, it got to be too much of a hassle," said Douglas.

Good drama available to viewers

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Thoughtful television viewers sometimes grouse, "Why can't American TV produce good drama as the British do?' The answer: It can, and does. Not on the commercial networks. The only audible answer to England's remarkable achievements - "The Forsythe Saga," "Upstairs, Downstairs," etc. - is Hollywood Television Theater.

It began in 1970 with a memorable production of "The Andersonville Trial," directed by George C. Scott. Forty productions have followed, including Clifford Odet's "Awake and Sing" (Walter Matthau), Arthur Miller's "Incident at Vichy" (Stacy Keach), Lillian Hellman's "Another Part of the Forest' (Dorothy McGuire, Barry Sullivan).

Funded by the Ford Foundation and affilliated stations of the Public Broadcasting Service, Hollywood Television Theater wastes no money on frills. For the 1974-75 season, it will present six plays at a total cost of $1.2 million. That's small potatoes by network standards, yet the plays possess remarkable quality.

"I know there is a lot of reverence for the BBC," said executive producer Norman Lloyd. "It's the best there is - but we're good, too.'

Critics often agree with his appraisal. The first two plays this season have been outstanding — Judith Anderson in "The Chinese Prime Minister" by Enid Bagnold, Richard Chamberlain in "The Lady's Not for Burning" by Christopher

The next production, Oliver Hailey's comedy "For The Use Of The Use Of The Hall," is scheduled to air Jan. 2. It stars Barbara Barrie, Susan Anspach, Joyce Van Patten and David Hedison.

Hollywood Television Theater is taped at the studios of the Los Angeles public television station, KCET, which occupies an ancient lot in Hollywood.

Producer Lloyd seems ideally suited for his work. He started as an actor with Eva LeGallienne's repertory and the Mercury Theater of Orson Welles and John Houseman. He has appeared in many films, often as the sinister heavy, and still practices his trade he recently did a "Kojak." For eight years he was associated with Alfred Hitchcock, producing and directing the Hitchcock TV series.

Lloyd steadfastly believes that Hollywood Television Theater presents better drama than what was seen in TV's so-called golden age of "Studio One, "Playhouse 90," "Alcoa Presents," etc.

Taryn Power has no true memory of father

Reflections

Taryn Power, 21, about to make her American acting debut, reflects on stories she has been told about her father, film idol Tyrone Power, who died when she was five. Her mother is actress Linda Christian. Miss Power will be seen in a Jan. 10 NBC-TV special. (AP Wirephoto)

Haskell's reason is a bit different

HOLLYWOOD — The usual reason an actor gives for wanting to do a television series is for money or fame. But Peter Haskell wants a series for the sake of a hundred days.

"Sure. I'd like to do another series," the handsome young actor says. "It's not so much for the chance to get into the rich-rich category as for the opportunity to work more.

"Doing guest shots and an occasional TV movie, I may work somewhere around 150 days a year. If I had my own series, I'd work about 250 days a year. And that's what I like to do - work."

The one series he did, Bracken's World, catapulted him to the top of the guest star heap. Even so, he wouldn't want another series like that.

"I had to divvy up the work with a dozen others," he says, "and that made it tough."

After Bracken's World, like so many others who had made it on the strength of a series, he was thought of as a hopeful in the rarified atmosphere of movie stars. And he did make two movies — "The Legend of Earl Durand' and "Christina."

Never heard of them? No wonder.

"'The Legend of Earl Durand' was made in 1971 and released just last year," he says. "It was only exhibited briefly. 'Christina' came out this year - but only for a few

"It's rather frustrating to make movies, work hard on them, and then find that they are released and forgotten."

So he says he prefers TV, where even bombs are viewed by millions and get their fair share of exposure.

"I can make a decent living as a guest star," he says. "Of course, a guest star can never become rich-rich. The only way to do that is have your own series, like Peter Falk, who is probably in the milliona-year bracket.

"I do seven or eight spots on episodic TV every year. Add a TV movie and I guess I average somwhere between $45,000 and $60,000 a year. That's enough to keep body and soul together."

Haskell now has another body and soul to keep together, besides his own. He just married Diana "Cricket"

Talmadge, a gamine-like agent. Cricket Haskell is still working - "I'll work until I get so pregnant I can't work any more." He teases her that that will be perhaps a halfhour before the baby is due.

They met a few years ago and moved in together last January.

"I said we'd try it," he says. "If we could still stand each other after six months, that would be it."

The fact that they are now married proves that they were able to stand each other for the required time.

LOS ANGELES (AP) -She was born the daughter of a movie idol, and when she visited his Hollywood grave recently she tried to remember him. But Taryn-Power, now 21, cannot summon a single recollection of her father, Tyrone.

"People tell me that I look like him," says the dark-haired, blue-eyed Taryn, who makes her American acting debut Jan.

'But I remember nothing. I was five years old when he died and my mother and he had left each other when I was three.'

From her mother, actress Linda Christian, from his friends and from watching his old movies on TV. Tarvn has learned about her famous father. But she wonders if she will ever know what he truly was like.

'It's very strange to hear people talk about him because he is so idealized," she said in an interview. "Ninety-nine point nine per cent of the people I've talked to about him have said only good things. It's as if he was a superhuman per-

Taryn is following closely in her father's tradition. Power, who died in 1958 at the age of 45, was the third Tyrone Power in his family to choose acting as a life's work. His greatgrandfather was an Irish comedian and his father a Shakesperian actor. Because Power had no son, Taryn was given the feminine equivalent of his famous name.

"I never really decided to become an actress," she said. "I was brought up on acting. I kept trying to put off the decision. It seemed such an important thing being a professional something. Then I realized that acting was the only thing I really knew."

Taryn and her older sister, Romina, were raised in Rome, the city where their parents were married.

"I think my mother wanted us to live there because she had nostalgia for Dad-Taryn said.

Three years ago she took her first professional role, starring in "Maria," a movie made in Colombia. Acting in Spanish didn't bother her; she is fluent in four languages and "gets along" in three others. She appeared in a second film last year in Argentina, then visited her mother who lives in Marbell, Spain, where she has become a painter. When Taryn returned to Rome, she was greeted with an offer - the role in "The Count of Monte Cristo."

Taryn, who portrays Valentine, daughter of de Villefort, costars with such luminaries as Richard Chamberlain, Trevor Howard, Donald Pleasance. Tony Curtis and Louis Jourdan, who plays her father. The TV special, which was filmed in Italy. will be released as a feature film in Europe.

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) -In what was once the vast Waspland of Television, it's surprising to find a primetime musical series starring a Greek-Puerto Rican and two black women.

No one was more surprised than Tony Orlando when he started getting feelers for a CBS show to star himself and his two singers, Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson.

True, they had enjoyed enormous success as Tony Orlando and Dawn, especially with their "Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'round the Ole Oak Tree." But was television ready for them?

Fred Silverman thought so. He is the programming chief for CBS, and he and his wife flipped over the trio when they appeared on the Grammy awards telecast last spring.

"We were only on the show for 3 minutes and 10 seconds." Tony recalled. "But Fred saw something in us that seemed promising. He asked our agent what we had done in television, and our agent sent him three shows we had done in England for BBC. Then he came to see us perform at Westbury (N.Y.)

The result was a CBS summer show. As with Mac Davis on NBC, the summer show provided a good break-in. Both Davis and Tony Orlando and Dawn provided midseason replacements for series that had faltered in the fall-"Sierra" and "Sons and Daughters," respectively.

Orlando has covered a lot of territory in the 30 years since he was born to a Manhattan furrier in the Hell's Kitchen area that has produced movie stars and felons. Orlando saw many of his friends sent off to prison; he himself went into the music business at 13, singing demonstration records for songwriters. One of them was an unknown named Carole King. In 1961 he recorded her "Halfway to Paradise" and it proved a hit. So did his next record "Bless You," and Orlando seemed on his way to fame.

The Beatle revolution halted his career. Musicalstyles changed overnight. and Orlando gave up singing to become a music publishing executive. Four years ago he went back to recording with "Candida," singing with two girls who called themselves Dawn, after the name of a record executive.

Other hits followed: "Knock Three times" (71/2 million worldwide), "Yellow Ribbon" (6 million, no. 1 record in 17 countries), "Say, Has Anyone Seen My Sweet Gypsy Rose?" "Stepping Out," "Gonna Boogie Tonight."

But looks can be deceiving and hers are. She was in Hollywood to discuss her latest film, "Gold," with Roger Moore. That's the film about a scheme to flood a South African gold mine for profit purposes.

She says her role was strictly on the surface. But she went down to where the filming was done - two miles underground - just for the experience of it.

"I wasn't required to go down," she says. "And I do suffer from both claustrophobia and acrophobia, and a gold mine is no place for people with that problem. But I decided I had to do it. so I did.'

It's typical of Susannah York. She enjoys doing rather dangerous and dramatic things. Once she went to a film festival in Mexico. She fell in love with that country so, after the festival wound up, she didn't go back home to England.

She bought a hammock and a back pack and, for the next two months, she trekked around Mexico alone. Much of the way she travelled by bus. but she did a lot of walking,

Hee Haw, the country-andwestern variety show, is rolling along like a greased pig on a downward slope, and the presumption is that everybody connected with it is getting reasonably rich.

The story begins in 1971. That was when CBS made a clean sweep, cancelling all their country-flavored shows.

It didn't matter what the ratings were. The network wanted to change its image. Out went The Beverly Hillbillies. Out went Green Acres. And out went Hee Haw, even though it commanded a high rating.

Coincidentally, at about the same time, the FCC initiated its prime access time ruling, Vanoff, who was a producer-director (Hollywood Palace, The Perry Como Show, The Julie Andrews specials), became vicepresident. And Frank Peppiatt and John Aylesworth continued on as co-executive producers.

There was never a problem making the show. The team that had done it on the network continued, and most of the cast continued, too. The only difficulty was in selling it to sponsors.

"There never was a problem selling it to the stations," Vanoff says. "Currently we have a line-up of 209 stations, a handful more than we had when we were on the network. No, our problem was in selling it to sponsors."

They took the show to New York, to the Madison Avenue advertising offices where neither of them had had any prior experience. They were made to cool their heels in the plush reception rooms "by some two-bit ad men." But they persevered and sold it finally to some A-1 sponsors.

Today, Hee Haw is a gold mine. It is distributed via telephone lines, in network fashion, and the whole country sees it at the same time. It is not, therefore, a syndicated show in the book definition of that term, but there seems to be no better terminology for it at the moment.

Each program has eight minutes of commercials Youngstreet sells four, the local stations sell the other four. The station gets the show for nothing, and everybody profits from the sale of commercials alone.

Hearnes says grand jury probe politically motivated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes says a grand jury investigation into his administration has been prompted partly by an effort to direct attention away from Watergate and by the knowledge he is considering entering the race for the Senate.

Hearnes said Thursday in a telephone interview with the Kansas City Star that he gave the U.S attorney's office here "bigger fish to fry" when he let it be known he was considering making a race for the Senate in 1976.

He said he believed the lengthy investigation was also motivated by political ambitions on the part of Paul Anthony White, the assistant U.S. attorney who has headed the grand jury investigation. White replied that he had "absolutely no political ambitions." Hearnes is a Democrat, the U.S. attorney is a Republican.

The former governor's remarks were made in the wake of a report Tuesday that the grand jury sitting in Kansas City was turning its attention to his personal finances—a report based on subpoenas on file in U.S. District Court.

Hearnes was critical of White for leaking information to the news media and said he thought federal judges in western Missouri should not permit such leaks. He also predicted that he would not be subpoenaed before the grand jury "because they know how political it

"If the judges are allowing this to be done in western Missouri through the news media. "then let's do it in the open, in a television debate," Hearnes said, reiterating his challenge to White for a public debate on the investigation.

The former governor said he did not ask White for the debate formally but "did like he does, I went through the media." Hearnes said some of the questions he would ask in such a confrontation would be "bombshells," but he told the Star he was not prepared to disclose

White denied he has leaked information about the case to the news media, noting that the subpoenas are public record and are on file in federal court. He said court rules and legal ethics preclude him from engaging in a debate with the former governor.

Hearnes said he would announce his decision on whether he is going to seek the seat of Sen. Stuart Symington by July 19, when his annual birthday party is held in Jefferson City.

Asked if the grand jury probe were hurting his chances, Hearnes replied: "I guarantee you I wouldn't advocate it for everybody running for

"But I'm not going to let them scare me out of making the race," Hearnes said.

"Somebody'd better get to Washington to start fighting for the people.

The former governor said there appeared to be "a great deal of unusual cooperation" at the start of the grand jury investigation between officials in Jefferson City and the U.S. attorney's

"The whole idea of the Bond administration has been to discredit my administration," Hearnes said of Christopher S. Bond, Republican who succeeded him as governor. "It takes people's minds off accomplishments of the Bond administration. In two years, Bond has accomplished absolutely nothing."

No work for no pay, county firemen say

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Members of the Pettis County Fire Department walked off the job about 12:30 p.m. Thursday after County Auditor Jerry Barr and County Clerk Mary Jane Wilson said they would not sign their paychecks for the coming year.

The fire department reportedly has been operating illegally for 19 years through general revenue funds. The state says the department must be supported by a special tax levy.

Presiding Judge John Bluhm said he was told by C. B. Burns of the Missouri Attorney General's office that Mrs. Wilson and Barr would be personally liable for any checks signed for the department.

Bluhm told the Democrat-Capital Thursday night that firemen probably will not return to work until a tax levy is passed to support the department.

Bluhm said though neither Mrs. Wilson nor Barr would sign checks for the fire department, "I don't think this is any way to treat taxpayers of rural Pettis County. I'm the only one willing

Mrs. Wilson has said she is in favor of the county having fire protection but she cannot sign an illegal check

"It's not that we don't want to sign the checks," Barr said, "it's that under law we can't."

In the meantime, the new county court is trying to find a solution to the county's problem and Civil Defense authorities are seeking volunteer fire protection.

Two Civil Defense volunteers were manning the station Thursday night. However, they planned to stay at the station only until early Friday morning, it was learned. Bluhm said the county court will meet with both Smithton

Probation interviews next for Watergate 4

WASHINGTON (AP) - John D. Ehrlichman Thursday became the first of four men convicted in the Watergate coverup trial to submit to a pre-sentence interview at the Probation Office of the U.S. District Courthouse.

All four former high officials of the Nixon administration — Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell and Robert C. Mardian — must undergo interviews required of all convicted felons awaiting sentencing.

For about a half-hour, a probation officer asked Ehrlichman questions about his background and personal life, officials said.

The four men will remain free over the next 30 days while the Probation Office prepares a report and recommends to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica how severely the men should be

The judge has set no sentencing date pending completion of the probation re-

Within a month after sentencing the appeals process will go into motion. But already some defense lawyers are looking beyond the U.S. Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court.

"I would guess that appeals from all four defendants will end up in the Supreme Court," said one defense attorney Thursday.

The four men were found guilty Wednesday of conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters. 4

Although the effective date of any jail sentence is up to the judge, chances are the defendants will remain free at least until the appeals court rules, a process likely to take a year or more. The Supreme Court appeal could last more than two years, according to some law-

Although Sirica has been criticized for his activist role and for offhand comments made during the trial, it appears unlikely that his behavior will result in

The appeals court, said one defense lawyer, "is not going to care about little points that would reverse a murder case. Generally the court takes a different view on big white-collar crimes than on cases against poor people where they are more likely to explore technical errors by the judge."

Nonetheless, one specific complaint about Sirica is that he refused to permit defense or prosecution lawyers to ask potential jurors their political party affiliation before the trial began.

All the defendants are agreed on one appeal point. Their lawyers will say the climate in Washington, where the Watergate scandals were mostly heavily reported, did not permit a fair trial.

Beyond that, the intense publicity of the impeachment hearings of the House Judiciary Committee and the resignation of former President Richard M. Nixon so firmly cemented opinions that an impartial jury was impossible to find, defense lawyers say.

An aide to Nixon said Thursday that the former President would not comment on the verdict because the defendants intend to file appeals.

Cline's condition delays police probe of shooting

Police Chief William Miller said Thursday night that Friday will be the earliest he will be able to question the victim of a New Year's day shooting because the victim's condition remains serious to critical at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia.

Elziah Cline Jr., 30, 212 East St. Louis, remained in the Medical Center with a fractured shoulder, chest injury, a collapsed lung and possible spinal injuries as the result of a shotgun blast about 2 a.m. Wednesday in the 200 block of East Main. A medical center spokesman said Thursday night that Cline's condition, though still serious to critical, was listed as "stable."

Miller said that Cline's condition made questioning impossible Thursday. "We are hoping that Cline will be able to tell us something about the shooting that will help with the investigation," he said.

Police reported that persons they have questioned about the incident, who were at the party Cline attended, have all stated they did not see him shot.

Cline was taken to Bothwell, Hospital by Walter "Monk" Murphy and an unidentified woman. Cline was later transferred to the Medical Center for treatment. Police said Murphy was questioned, but could furnish no information in the case.

On Aug. 20, 1974, Cline reported to police that shots were fired at his house at 217 East Cooper. While two police officers were at the house investigating the incident, six or seven more shots were fired. No one was injured and no arrests were made in connection with the case.

Miller said that there is no way to determine any direct relationship between the two incidents.

Cline is presently free on $10,000 bond after a Johnson County Circuit Court jury Nov. 13 convicted him of kidnaping and recommended his sentence at two years in the State Department of Corrections, a spokesman for the Johnson County circuit clerk's office said.

Cline and another Sedalia man, Cye Casey, 320 East St. Louis, were charged with abducting a Clinton man, Anthony Stewart, on June 25, 1973, at gunpoint from his home. They were arrested the same night in Columbia.

The circuit court spokesman said Cline is free on bond pending a hearing on a motion (Please see PROBE, Page 4)

Israelis hit Lebanon second straight day

By The Associated Press

Israeli commandos on an "all-out security operation" raided southern Lebanon for the second straight day Thursday. Lebanon called the Israeli incursion criminal and reported four civilians and a Lebanese soldier killed.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said he understood the reasons behind the postponement of Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's January trip to the Middle East. Sadat did not say what those reasons were, but he revealed that differences still exist between the Soviet Union and Egypt.

"I am sure that Brezhnev will come to visit us and to resolve the remaining differences," Sadat told a group of scientists in a speech broadcast by Cairo radio. The reasons for the postponement have been variously reported as ill health and differences over political and military questions.

Sadat said the Soviet-Egyptian problems involve "the same differences which compelled us to expel Soviet advisers from Egypt." Sadat ordered 15,000 Soviet advisers from the country in July, 1972.

In Lebanon, Prime Minister Rashid Solh called the Israeli raid an ugly. crime. Israeli troops attacked the village of Taibeh, two miles north of the border, and dynamited a house where Solh said a man and his two sons were sleeping. All three were killed.

A military source in Tel Aviv said Israeli forces destroyed the house only after they were fired upon by persons

"The soldiers stormed the building and then blew it up," he said. "When you are being fired on with bazookas and everything else you don't stop to ring the bell." The Israeli command earlier issued a communique saying a house in Taibeh was dynamited after terrorists inside opened fire. The command said the terrorists were killed but did not say how

Sedalians say of cover-up trial

Convictions prove system works

For most persons interviewed Thursday, the New Year's Day conviction of accused Watergate cover-up participants John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman and Robert C. Mardian restored or reassured their basic belief in the effectiveness of the American judicial system.

"Somebody said last year that the 'system' has mistakenly been blamed for this whole mess," commented a local resident who preferred to remain anonymous. "Instead, this man said, it will be the system that will eventually save us. I think that's been borne out. These men weren't hung from the highest tree, but they weren't allowed to escape either. The courts and the constitution saved the day as far as I'm concerned.

Expressing a similar sentiment was James Rice, president of the Pettis County Bar Association, who said "this should place added integrity in the judicial system and in the fact that it is working and working well." The trial and subsequent jury decisions also, Rice said, substantiate that "criticism which is all-too-often levied against the judicial system is, in the final analysis, hastily conceived and ill-

founded."

The jury, Rice felt, "reached a correct conclusion." The decision, he added, "reenforces the belief of a majority of people with whom I have discussed this matter.'

Rice said he felt the pardoning of former President Richard Nixon by President Ford might have some effect on Judge John Sirica's sentencing

WASHINGTON - I had calls from the Los Angeles Times and the Boston Globe last week asking me what my prediction was for the humor business in 1975. I had to regretfully inform them that humor economists were predicting a great shortage of humor for '75 and the cost of a barrel of mirth might go as high as $14.

A year ago a barrel of crude laughs was selling as low as $4, and it was difficult to give the stuff away. But then Watergate ended, Nixon resigned, and suddenly the country found itself with a shortage of hu-

Since there is more demand for humor now than ever before, the producers and refiners say they had no choice but to raise the price of it for 1975.

At a meeting of the Humor Producers Association in Cleveland, Sheik Russell Baker told the press, "The world has been exploiting humor producers for centuries. There is no reason people should not pay as much for humor as they do for gas."

The Shah of Herblock warned the world that it was wasting its humor. "By raising the price of a barrel of mirth to $14, we might wake people up to the fact that unless strong conservation methods are taken we could run out of humor by 1984. For too long the nations of this earth have been depending on Polish and Italian jokes as their main source of humor. Unless other jokes are discovered soon, we could find ourselves in a very grim world."

The shah's warning was reiterated by Sheik Art Hoope, who told the press, "There is just so much humor in the ground; and while we regret that some people will have to suffer because of the new price increases, we have to think of ourselves first. Everyone has been taking humor for granted. As long as the economy was good, people used laughter as if there was no tomorrow. But no one expected 1974 to end so miserably. Now people who used to laugh at anything aren't laughing

One of the reasons for the sharp increase in humor according to Sheik Oliphant was that most world leaders have become dull. "It takes twice as much effort to produce a barrel of laughs as it did a few years ago when Charles de Gaulle, Lyndon Johnson, Golda Meir, Gamal Nasser and Ho Chi Minh were in power. You have no idea what it costs to produce one cartoon on Gerry Ford. Obviously we have to pass this on to the consumer.'

Hans Yoakum, a humor economist, said despite the recent CIA disclosures he saw no relief from high humor prices in sight.

"The humor producers are adamant that the price of crude will remain at $14, and refined laughter could go as high as $20 a

"We're going to have to live with it," he said in a report to the President. "You can't have recession and inflation and expect cheap humor to boot.'

Mr. Yoakum warned the President that if the price of crude humor remained at $14 the humor producers would soon be making $35 billion a year. Unless this money is recycled it could cause grave economic conditions throughout the world.

He suggested the best way for the humor producers to recycle the money with the least damage to the economy was for the United States to sell them Pan American

Clean air, water will cost much

By RAY CROMLEY NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON - Most progress is a compromise. Medical drugs do harm as well as good. The same applies to agricultural chemicals. It is now suspected that all foods, even the best, may have some bad side effects over the years.

So it is with our anti-pollution drive. It is essential that, as we head toward the cleaner air and water all of us desire, we know the cost in dollars and in side effects.

have already learned that some of the anti-pollution devices we have ordered installed sometimes reduce on hazard but spew out worse byproducts. In other instances it is found that air and water are dirtied by the manufacture of chemicals designed to lower pollution.

This columnist will only concentrate on estimating a part of the dollar costs.

The federal government's anti-pollution laws will cost industry $200 billion over the next 10 years.

By 1984, pollution control operation and maintenance costs alone will be running at $20 billion a year and new capital spending at $10 billion. Those costs will be passed on to the consumer.

These are conservative estimates, based on studies at the Environmental Protection Agency. They do not include the cost to manufacturers of complying with state, county and city laws. And they do not include the cost to owners for antipollution devices on automobiles. These items will also add billions to the total.

We shall pay other prices, too.

Anti-pollution regulations reportedly have caused the closing of 69 plants and the loss of 12,000 jobs. Officials say most closings were not due solely to governmentimposed anti-pollution costs. Rather, they claim the plants were typically small, old and marginal. But all the same, these producers were largely in primary metals, paper, food products and chemicals, where production shortages contribute heavily to Another 81 plants and 44,008 additional jobs are threatened in companies which now calculate they cannot afford to meet the added costs of expensive equipment for holding down pollution. These companies, too, are in the basic industries

This is but the beginning. Though the federal government's drive for clean air and water has been in operation for some years, it is now moving into high gear so that the worst is yet to come.

This is only a part of the story.

More serious than plant closings is the negative effect of anti-pollution regulation costs on industry's expansion plans.

Producers of aluminum, coke, glass, iron, and steel, ferrosilicon, petrochemicals, salt, stainless steel, soda ash and titanium report they have cut back sharply on programs to increase output when faced by the cost of meeting environmental regulations.

Ironically, these products comprise a good chunk of those the federal government is attempting to promote in order to knock out inflation and to improve employment.

But there is more. The legal maneuvering and licensing battles over environmental requirements are holding back the building of nuclear power systems and the conversion of oil-burning electric power plants to coal - both in accord with President Ford's attempts to reduce our dependence on the world petroleum cartel. All this is not to argue against a cleanup of the environment. Rather, it is to vote for common sense in our approach and it is to say that if we want purer air and water, we must be prepared to pay the price.

WASHINGTON — As we move into 1975, national morale is shaky.

Across the front pages march the grim phalanxes of inflation, recession, scarcity, crime and corruption with heavy tread.

On newsstands, national magazines challenge passers-by with apocalyptic covers: one depicts a well-to-do family sitting down to a Christmas dinner of empty plates; another trumpets "The End of Affluence: The Last Christmas in America;" a third cover announces that we are "Coming Around to Socialism."

Erudite pundits blithely tell us that the edifice America has built is junk, now come tumbling down about us.

Great difficulties loom before us in 1975, no one can doubt that. But before writing off the future or jumping into a briar patch of quack nostrums, a little stock taking is in Hanging over the chronically depressed economy were two spectres that promised untold trouble. Remember: One was automation, which threatened to bring mass unemployment by wiping out millions of traditional jobs; the other was the after-effect of the postwar baby boom.

What would happen, went the refrain, when 70 million kids poured into the school system and then the job market: The mathematical extrapolations were ghastly. At the levels of growth and capacity, which were then current, the incoming hordes would be locked out, first without classrooms and teachers, then without jobs. houses, hospitals, highways.

construct more in two decades than in all the previous years of our national life combined. Stagnant America lacked the will and the vision, the critics said; it couldn't be done.

Well, we did it. What we accomplished just yesterday is worth reviewing. For if we grasp what we have done, then we shall gain a sense of what we can do. This may help us meet the challenge of reviving the economy and developing new energy

Part of the story is chronicled in the book, "The Real America," by Ben Wattenberg, an author with a nose for doomsday cant and an uncanny gift for making the cold statistics come to life. Other facts have been gathered by my staff.

Here's the story, all carefully

✓ Since 1959, we have made it possible for — hold your hats — 74 million people to be enrolled in schools today. That's one third of the nation! Nine million are in college, more than double the 1960 figure. From our poorest homes, earning from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, 21 per cent enter college. Of our college population, 60 per cent are the children of parents who did not attend college. Thus, while we went about our ordinary business, we produced the greatest miracle of upward mobility in human history.

✓ Since 1950, employment has expanded fast enough to absorb almost all those postwar babies. Manual labor and menial jobs declined. But the ditch digger reemerged as a bulldozer operator and the maid as a bank teller.

✓ Since 1950, America has constructed from scratch a suburbia that houses 35 million people. In a twinkling, as it were, we erected the physical equivalent of a new nation, containing more houses, furniture. bathtubs, vehicles, stores, theaters, libraries, communications equipment, paved roads and public services than the efforts of centuries have accumulated in such advanced nations as France, Great Britain or Italy. Aesthetes may deride these lookalike homes on their quarter acres, but they represent the best material living conditions ever created for working people anywhere.

✓ Since 1950, the median income of the American family has doubled. With inflation taken into account, average family income, measured in constant 1972 dollars, has risen from $4,500 to more than $11,000. Distress over inflation and fear of recession cause us to forget this gain. But there it is, the greatest and broadest increase in wellbeing ever recorded.

✓ Since 1950, working conditions have improved dramatically. Shameful conditions still exist in some industries and they must be relentlessly exposed. But for most people, gains have been impressive. Work begins later and retirement comes earlier, cutting 10 to 15 years off the working life. In 1949, 61 per cent of our workers got paid vacations of two weeks; by 1972, 87 per cent got paid vacations of four weeks or more.

 ✓ What of the poor? Since 1959, poverty has been cut in half; the percentage of families below the poverty line has dropped from 22 to 11 per cent. Substandard housing fell from 16 to 7 per cent. In the past dozen years, 14 million Americans crossed over the poverty line. For those who remain below, the rate of exit offers hope. Meanwhile, food stamps, rent supplements and health care make poverty less the Dickensian horror of old.

We who have wrought these advances in our own time have not suddenly atrophied and fallen sterile, ready for the ideological embalmers. Whatever innovations the new era calls for, we'll be equal to them.

When a bridge expert talks about dummy reversal he isn't referring to a dummy meeting with reverses. He is referring to a play that consists of declarer making an extra trick by ruffing so many of dummy's by ruffing so many of dummy's cards in his own hand that dummy winds up with the long

Today's hand shows an extreme example of this play.
Normally South will be able to ruff his last diamond in dummy and make his contract but West is unkind enough to open a trump and East shows out. South can still bring the con-tract home but he must start

He wins the first trick in dummy, ruffs a heart, leads a spade to the king ruffs a second heart, leads a spade to the ace, ruffs a third heart, leads a diamond to the ace, ruffs the last heart, gets back to dummy by leading his next to last trump: ruffs dummy's last spade with his own last trump and has 10 tricks home, while there is dummy with one more trump

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) -North Vietnamese assault troops backed by tanks battled their way into the streets of a South Vietnamese provincial capital Thursday and the Saigon command said the situation was critical.

Heavy fighting was reported in Phuoc Binh City, 76 miles north of Saigon and near the Cambodian border.

Viet Cong truce delegates in Saigon turned down a plea by the Saigon government to cooperate in the evacuation of some 26,000 civilians from the isolated city. They coupled their rejection with another call for the removal of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Phuoc Binh appeared to be a major goal in the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong offensive launched four weeks ago.

Stover fire victims probably were alive

(Democrat Capital Service)

Victims of laast week's trailer home fire in Stover probably were alive when the blaze began, State Fire Marshal Robert

Morrison reported Thursday. Morrison said tests conducted on blood samples taken from four of the five victims showed carbon monoxide in the blood. "This ties right in with the theory that they were alive at the time the fire started," Morrison said.

Blood samples were taken last Friday from the bodies of Otis and Mae Gregory, their son, Jerry, and grandson, Mark Dickey.

Though the victims probably were alive when the fire started, Morrison said his office maintains its earlier ruling that the fire was caused by arson and that a murdersuicide may have been the motive. "As far as we're concerned the autopsies and coroner's inquest didn't change our opinion. Technically, this is the only thing we can state at this time and we consider our case closed," Morrison said.

A Morgan County coroner's jury ruled Tuesday that four of the five victims died of smoke inhalation and burns

Autopsies were performed to determine whether the victims were dead before the fire. Morgan County Coroner Dr. Robert Lyle, said the bodies, when X-rayed, showed no fractures or evidence of violence.

The fifth fire victim, Jewell Cowell, 55, who died Saturday, also died of smoke inhalation and burns. However, his death was not investigated by the coroner's jury.

Lyle and Pettis County Coroner Dr. John Owens, who conducted the autopsies, agreed Tuesday there was no need for further investigation in the case.

An obituary in Sunday's Sedalia Democrat for Mark Dickey, 9, stated the boy was the son of Merl Dickey, Green Ridge, and Mrs. Margaret Schnirch,

The information was relayed from the youth's mother to an area funeral home. However, the elder Dickey told the Democrat-Capital that although he previously was married to Mrs. Schnirch, the dead youth was not his son.

Jurors changed minds

WASHINGTON (AP) — For each of the four defendants convicted in the Watergate cover-up trial, there were members of the jury who initially planned to vote for acquittal, but changed their minds during hours of deliberation.

"We weren't in complete agreement on any of them right off the bat," a member of the panel said a few hours after verdicts were returned on the five defendants.

Vandals busy here during holiday period

Numerous incidents of break-ins and vandalism were reported to police over the New Year's holiday.

Three offices were broken into in a building at Seventh and Ohio sometime Wednesday, police said.

The McCully Insurance Agency, 620 South Ohio, was broken into and numerous files were gone through. More than $10 in cash was taken from a cash drawer along with a portable radio and an electronic calculator. No value was set on the items.

Also robbed in the same building were the offices of General Adjustment Bureau Inc., 106 West Seventh. A portable tape recorder was taken.

A radio and a calculator were taken from Hassen Realty, 102 West Seventh, in the break-in. Entry to the building was apparently gained by prying a lock off a west door

In other police news, several incidents of vandalism were reported over the Wednesday holiday.

About 35 green house windows were broken out of Archias Floral, Fourth and Park, sometimes early Wednesday morning. Value for the loss was set at $82.58.

Vandals broke 35 windows out of the north side of the M-K-T railroad depot, 600 East Third. No damage estimate was

"Some of the jurors had reservations on all of them. They didn't want to convict all of them," the juror said.

"They didn't want to say they're all guilty and let it go at that." The juror asked to remain anonymous.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica urged the jury members not to talk about the trial even with members of their families. Despite efforts to seal off the jurors from Watergate news not introduced in evidence, they were aware that former President Richard M. Nixon suffered from a serious phlebitis condition during the Without saying how or in how much detail, the juror acknowledged learning of Nixon's illness despite three months of sequestration. Deputy U.S. marshals monitored the jury to discourage any discussion of trial matters throughout the proceeding which began Oct. 1. The juror said the panel considered each defendant by talking informally around the oak table in the middle of the deliberating room so each of the nine women and three men could be heard. Although it became clear in discussions how each juror was thinking of voting, there were formal votes taken only once for each of the counts lodged against the defendants. Many minds were changed, the

for a new trial, scheduled next Tuesday in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The case was moved from Henry County to Johnson County on a change of venue. Casey's trial, originally scheduled for Thursday or today, has been postponed, the spokesman said. A spokesman for the State Department of Corrections told The Democrat-Capital last August that Cline had served three terms at the state penitentiary.

voters in the spring. However, he said the levy "could have been put on the November (general election) ballot, but no one did anything about it. This thing has been going on for 19 years.' He said no residents had petitioned for the election and that the court only recently discovered that Mrs. Wilson intended to stop signing checks for the fire department. She made the announcement last week. Under Pettis County's new second class status, checks previously signed by Bluhm and Mrs. Wilson must now be signed by Barr as well.

Bluhm said, "The past court had no intention of cutting off fire services without giving residents a chance to vote. The past court had no inkling this was coming up or we would have

Western District Judge Paul White and Eastern District Judge Russell McFatrich, both newcomers, took office Thursday

He said in order to put a levy before the voters residents must petition the Circuit Court with at least 100 signatures.

Bluhm said though operating the fire department with general revenue funds "is technically illegal ... it really isn't as long as you don't make distinctions between the people being served (by the department). General revenue has to be something that serves everybody.

Bluhm said funds for the department originally were set up by Frank Monroe, a previous judge of the county court.

According to Bluhm, Monroe was aware that funding the department with general revenue was "technically" illegal "but he thought it was a good service to the people ... and it was as long as we had funds to run it. Now this (system) would make it hard on the budget next year."

Ron Ollison, fire chief, said Bluhm called the station about 12:30 p.m. to tell the firefighters that they would no longer be paid. Ollison also said he was told that the men who worked Wednesday and Thursday morning would not be paid.

According to Jerry Iuchs, Civil Defense director, several persons have offered to help in case of fire. However he said only one of the volunteers has had fire training. He said about 25 people have taken civil defense fire training but most of those persons have since moved out of the county. He said currently only four Civil Defense volunteers have had University of Missouri extension training.

"If a fire happened right now, I'd have to start searching for "The county has known this was going to happen for a long time and we all hoped they could keep the department they had," he added. Bluhm said he expects to talk about possible solutions with Frank Schwarzer, executive director of the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, on Friday morning.
